What do you mean by Academic Integrity?

Academic integrity boils down to honesty and responsibility.

Integrity means to act ethically, honestly and with fairness.

This means that all of your work at Curtin should be your own. If you use other’s work, then all you need to do is acknowledge it.

I keep hearing the word plagiarism. What does it mean?

- Plagiarism means presenting the work or property of another person as if it was one’s own without appropriate acknowledgement or referencing.
How do you know if you should reference or not?

Where do you draw the line?
What's the very best two tips you can give to help me succeed?

• Whenever you write, close your source and write it - as you understand it - from memory, then reopen the source and check your words are not too close a match to what was said originally.

• Always keep your references with the text & get into this habit from the start (otherwise you will forget it wasn’t your work!)

How many people actually get caught?

Curtin investigated more than 2,000 cases of plagiarism, cheating and academic misconduct last year!
What do the different levels of plagiarism mean?

Level I
- Applies only to ‘New to Curtin’ students
- only when the plagiarism involves inadequate paraphrasing/referencing

Level II
- Applies to students beyond the ‘New to Curtin’ parameters where the plagiarism is suspected to be dishonest or unfair
- Applies to students that ‘should have known better’ even without dishonest intent

Level III
- Applies to ALL students where the plagiarism is suspected to be dishonest or unfair
- when the plagiarism is pre-meditated and deceptive, cheating and when the assessment process has been compromised
My friend has given me a copy of their assignment from last year. Can I use it?

Describe the nature of feedback in assessment practices and discuss how you can apply this in your own teaching practice.

Brown (2007) describe feedback as “…the oil that lubricates the cogs of understanding” (p. 1). In particular, Gibbs and Simpson (2004/5) suggest this occurs because feedback can help to correct errors and develop students’ understanding by suggesting further specific study tasks. Through feedback processes generic skills are promoted by focusing on evidence of the use of skills rather than on the content and encouraging students’ reflection and awareness of learning processes. In summary, the role of feedback in the learning process, is to inform the student of where and how their learning and performance can be improved (GMV, 2006).

Feedback on learning can come from fellow students, lecturers, staff supporting the learning process such as demonstrators, or the student themselves. Irrespective of who provides the feedback it should be informative and supportive to facilitates a positive attitude to future learning, timely feedback to improve the quality of their learning and work and regularly receive specific information, not just marks.

In particular, there are two approaches to feedback - feed-forward and summative. Feed-forward can be regarded as formative - in other words pointing towards improving and developing future work. This contrasts with summative feedback, referring back principally to what was – and what was not – achieved in past work. Ideally, feedback needs to achieve both purposes, but the danger is that it sometimes is not sufficiently formative, and too dominated by summative comments.

I’ve heard Curtin has introduced an AIP. Why do I have to do it?

• Growing concerns about integrity in education (and other areas)
• Ethically, it is the right thing to do.
• Maintains the value of your qualification

Curtin’s Academic Integrity Program (AIP)

- The AIP will help give you tools to successfully navigate tricky situations that challenge your academic integrity (AI).

- It will inform you about AI concepts:
  - Ethics, Curtin’s values and expectations for students, referencing, plagiarism, cheating, and misconduct processes and possible outcomes.

- All incoming coursework students are required to complete the AIP in their first study period at Curtin.

Academic Integrity Program (AIP) Website

- Information about the AIP
- AIP Link
- Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs)
- Links to resources related to academic integrity
- Student checklist for avoiding plagiarism

MORE INFORMATION: https://academicintegrity.curtin.edu.au/students/AIP.cfm
Where do I find the AIP?

- Access the AIP through Blackboard.
- In your first study period you will see a link to the AIP in your 'My Units' list in Blackboard.
- You can access Blackboard through OASIS.

https://oasis.curtin.edu.au/

What happens if I don't complete the AIP?

- You will see reminders to complete the AIP when you log into OASIS until you have passed it.
- Example of Reminder in OASIS:

Please complete the Curtin Academic Integrity Program (AIP).

Completion of this program will ensure you are informed about the essential things you need to know about academic integrity. Topics will include ethics, Curtin's values and expectations for students, referencing, plagiarism, cheating, and misconduct processes and possible outcomes.

You are required to pass the program in your first term of enrolment at Curtin. If you do not pass the program by the end of your first term of enrolment, your results will be withheld until you pass.

What happens if I don't complete the AIP?

- If you do not pass the program by the end of your first study period of enrolment, your results will be withheld until you pass.
- Example of sanction in OASIS:

You currently have a sanction that is withholding your results.

To ensure that you are able to view your results, please check the sanctions channel for details and take action to clear your sanction/s as soon as possible. View results release date.

Note: If your sanction is related to an outstanding payment, it may take up to 3 days for your payment to be processed. This alert will disappear within 24 hours after your sanction is cleared.
The AIP will take about two hours to complete.

After working through the content, you must pass a test with 80% correct or more to pass the program.

You can retake the test as many times as you need to pass.
